

European energy connections

your trans-atlantic business opportunity

About us

We are Sofia Wretler, Håkan Karlström and Bob Ryan, consultants working together to help European and American companies find each other in order to bring renewable European energy technology to the United States market. Sofia and Håkan are Swedish and Bob is American and we work in both Sweden and the United States. Our mission is to facilitate smooth transactions between American and European companies despite language barriers, different business climates, and different traditions. Our experience with several previous projects allows us to already have contacts in both Europe and the United States.

We offer the following services:

We develop business relationships with European and American companies

We find renewable energy companies in Europe, we find manufacturers and/or distributors in the US, we create data bases both on the US side and the European to then match appropriate technologies/companies together, we help with the mediation process between the companies and putting together the information needed for a and monitor the implementation of the agreement.

We also provide following business development services:

- business-to-business introductions
- translations and layout for web sites and product literature
- market and feasibility studies
- straight sales

If you are interested in our services and/or finding a collaboration partner, we would be happy to send you more detailed information about what this collaboration would look like. We would like to add your company to our databases and find out more about what your company is looking for to ensure success in finding the most suitable partners. Please go to our web site and fill out our questionnaire!
